

Here lie the Quancard family roots. Many of the chateau's vines share the same destiny as Terrefort. They overlook the Dordogne, a river flowing with hopes and expectations, many of which are reflected here in this beautiful wine, born from a passion for the terroir and its history. Straddling the 45th parallel, the vines of the chateau benefit from a microclimate that is ideal for winegrowing: moderately warm, humid, masses of sunshine and mild winters.

Ageing potential

Ready to drink now,
this wine will reach its full potential around 2024-2026.

Tasting

Beautiful colour and a delightful bouquet with scents of black fruit combined with elegant toasted notes.

The generous, full-bodied palate suggests a promising potential to improve with age.

An excellent example of the 2016 vintage.

Food pairing

Enjoy with red meat and also with soft cheese.

AWARDS

Gold, Concours International de Lyon, 2018
